

Historical Summary of LSS of South Dakota A Tradition of Compassion, Vision & Leadership

In the early fall of 1920, Dr. H. B. Kildahl, Executive Secretary of the Department of Charities, Norwegian Lutheran Church of America (NLCA headquartered in Minneapolis) wrote to N. N. Boe, President, South Dakota District, NLCA, recommending the establishment of a home for “unfortunate girls” and their children in Sioux Falls. Dr. Boe talked it over with the pastor of Grace Lutheran Church (currently First Lutheran), H. H. Glenn, and two leading church men, Judge Lewis Larson and attorney, James Berdahl. Their response was positive. Plans were made to invite all interested persons to an open meeting to discuss the request and possible ways to meet it.

On October, 1920, such a meeting took place, resulting in a decision to organize a Lutheran Children’s Home Finding Society of South Dakota. It was to be incorporated under the laws of South Dakota, and to be under the auspice of the NLCA. Those present elected the first Board of Directors. They authorized the Board to find and purchase property to serve as a maternity home. Articles of Incorporation of the Lutheran Children’s Home Finding society of South Dakota were filed and dated December 28, 1920.

A month later a site had been found. At its November meeting, the Board authorized the purchase of a house at the corner of 6th Street and Spring Avenue. The property was in serious disrepair, but the price was attractive. Since it had only recently been organized, the Home Finding Society had no money for the purchase. Personal loans from Board members ($3,000), a bank loan ($6,000), and a mortgage ($3,000) made it possible to pay $10,500 for the property. The remaining $1,500 went to repairs and necessary furnishings.

On May 16, 1921, an open house and donation day marked the opening of the House of Mercy. More than a hundred women of Grace Lutheran Church had formed an auxiliary to help get the House of Mercy ready. They hosted the open house, serving coffee and sweets to the hundreds who came to see the home. Most of the visitors brought gifts—linens, china, cookware, books, food and money.

The morning after the House of Mercy opened, the first applicants for admission appeared—an elderly woman and a seven-year-old girl who needed a home. While they were not the expected clients, they were warmly welcomed and housed as long as needed. Three elderly ladies were also boarded that first year.

The pregnant girls for whom the home was intended soon began to arrive. By the end of its first year, the House of Mercy had cared for 23 unmarried and 3 married mothers, 12 children were placed in adoptive homes.

From this humble beginning, LSS has evolved to provide services throughout South Dakota. Following are highlights, expansions and changes of LSS through the years.

From our beginnings a century ago, LSS has been carrying out an active ministry of the Lutheran church—resurrecting hope where hope has been lost, meeting people where they are in life, and walking alongside of them as a ministry of presence. Throughout our 100 years, LSS services have evolved in response to the changing needs of individuals, families and communities.

Our legacy of 100 years of service was not built by being average and neither will our future. We go boldly into a second century of service with a vision for all people of South Dakota to be healthy, safe and accepted. Our faith compels us to serve and to value all people—using our hands and feet, our hearts and words, to serve our neighbors as God intended.
